

PRESS RELEASE

Interchange expands its online currency service to eight new Czech cities

Prague, 10th October, 2017: The International Interchange Group ('Interchange'), one of the leading foreign exchange providers in the world, and in the Czech Republic with 40 local branches, has announced that following the successful testing of its online currency reservation service within Prague, it can now offer this service in eight other Czech cities.

In addition to collection points in Prague city centre and Prague Airport, as of the beginning of October, customers have been able to order currency online and collect it from the Interchange FX exchange offices in the following cities: České Budějovice, Děčín, Hradec Králové, Liberec, Mladá Boleslav, Most, Pardubice and Plzeň.

The service has already become popular amongst the Interchange customers in Prague thanks to the very favourable online rates and the zero transaction fees and the company expects that the online service will prove to be just as much of an attractive option in the wide network of FX offices that it is now available.

Outside Prague Interchange will be offering very favourable local rates for online orders, with the only difference being that customers can only order amounts of up to 20,000 CZK through the online system. Customers wishing to exchange higher amounts are able to request VIP rates directly from their local FX offices, or can order by email on smena@interchange.cz.

Talking about this new service, Marek Nacovsky, the Country Director for Interchange in the Czech Republic said:

„After successfully testing our online currency reservation system in Prague, we are confident that it will prove just as popular in the other cities in which we operate, and we are sure that our customers will appreciate the exceptional rates and service that we are able to provide through this new system.“
